(LVIIIth Year.) THE (No. 2388.)

MARYLAND GAZETTE.

THURSDAY, October 18, 1792.

PARIS, August 11.

SEVERAL causes have concurred towards the dethroning of Louis XVI. and completely eſtranging the affections of the nation from the monarch. Time, that ſooner or later unfolds every thing, will probably diſcover that the king has acted completely the political hypocrite. There is no doubt but himſelf, the queen, and ſome others of the royal family, had contrived to hold a ſteady correſpondence with the combined enemies of France, and the national ſpirit was in conſequence roused to dethrone him, and endeavour to unite upon ſome ſolid plan of reſiſtance to the combined deſpotic forces. before it became too late. The main charge againſt the king was, that he had intereſted himſelf in preventing ſupplies being ſent to the army, by which means he expected they would fall an eaſy prey to the invaders, who were to replace him on the throne.

Aug. 12.—"In the engagement on Friday between the populace and the guards, there remains no doubt but the Swiſs fired firſt, but not until they were preſſed upon in the moſt violent manner, and their guns forcibly turned round, and planted againſt the palace. M. d'Affry gave the order to fire. The federates of Breſt and Marſeilles ruſhed forward, and in a few minutes there was a dreadful ſlaughter. The Swiſs retreated to the palace, and kept a moſt fatal fire from the windows. The dead lay in heaps. The quays were full of people armed and unarmed, and directing their fire deliberately into this multitude—the maſſacre was dreadful. It did not, however, intimidate the aſſailants. Seven pieces of cannon were played on the Thuilleries and the Louvre. They made breaches in the old walls in a ſhort time; but their impetuoſity from the place de Carouſal was irreſiſtible. They broke in, and in a few minutes the multitude filled the place; every Swiſs that came in their way periſhed; but numbers found temporary ſafety in the cellars and garrets, and were with difficulty ſaved from the rage of the people. I can give no perfect account of the dead. From the number yet unburied, or thrown into the Seine, or burnt; for a fire was made in the place de Carouſal, in which the furniture, the tapeſtry, &c. of the palace was conſumed, and into which, in the wantonneſs of cruelty, many dead bodies (ſuch as they knew to be gentlemen) were thrown; I ſuppoſe there were not fewer than 2500—ſome carry the number much higher—and others diminiſh it to a very ſmall number indeed—but this will by and by be aſcertained. The names I have heard are thoſe of M. d'Affry, the abbe Bouillion, Carle, Mandat, &c.—The palace is completely diſmantled. The day was exceſſively hot, and they regaled themſelves on the king's wine: they brought it out in immenſe quantities; and it was not uncommon to ſee men and women, after their own draught, put the bottles to the mouth of the dead lying in mangled heaps, with the wit of furious ſport which they have all along exhibited, crying, "Here, take your laſt drink!—Drink to the nation!"—The horrors of the day cannot be deſcribed to you in adequate language, for the beginning of our career in July, 1789, was exceeded.

M. Maudart, the commander of the national guard, was arreſted going down the ſtair-caſe of the Hotel de Ville. He was ſeized by the people, beheaded, and his head fixed upon a pole and carried through the ſtreets.

In about an hour from the commencement of the attack on the palace, not one Swiſs was left. Ninety-three who ſurvived their colonel, and gen. d'Affry, demanded quarters, but they were conducted to the place de Greve, and there put to death. About three hundred Marſeillois have fallen, and near a thouſand citizens, among which were ſeveral women and children, whom curioſity had led towards the ſcene of action.

All the Swiſs, above 500, were put to death, and the people carried the remnants of their cloaths on the ends of their pikes in triumph. The pavilions of the palace, near the place de Carouſal, were afterwards ſet on fire, as well as the Swiſs barracks.

The maids of honour of the palace were conducted to the Section; the reſt of the perſons on duty were put to death. The wine cellars were alone plundered. The jewels, plate, &c. were brought to the aſſembly, and depoſited in ſafety.

The attack at the palace began before ten o'clock—A Marſeilles officer appeared at the principal door of the palace, and demanded entrance for himſelf and a banditti from a Swiſs officer who commanded there. The Swiſs replied, that his orders would not permit him to comply. The Marſeilles officer inſtantly applied a piſtol to his breaſt, and ſhot him through the heart.

M. Sulin, the queen's ſecretary, is likewiſe among thoſe whoſe heads were cut off in the palace.

Many of the women belonging to the palace, and ſome others, met an equally unfortunate fate. They had fled for ſafety, and had reached the bridge.—Knowing that their lives were in danger, if they were taken, about twenty threw themſelves over the battlements into the water, and were drowned.

The king and queen behaved themſelves with great fortitude. The king's countenance throughout ſhewed ſigns of the moſt perfect compoſure. The queen looked with an air of magnanimity and diſdain on her enemies.

It is ſaid that the king is to have a public trial on the 28th of this month, Auguſt.

The new miniſters, as appointed by the aſſembly, are—

M. Danton, miniſter of juſtice.
M. Le Brun, miniſter for foreign affairs.
M. Roland, miniſter of the interior.
M. Servan, miniſter at war.
M. Monge, miniſter of marine.
M. Clavierre, miniſter of contributions.

The king, queen and family, bore their condition with great equanimity. The preſident's room was aſſigned for them, and there they have remained ever ſince. The palace Bourbon is converted into a priſon for the Swiſs, and for all the perſons whom they chooſe to apprehend upon ſuſpicion. The Feuillant and ſome other journals are ſtopt, and by opening letters they have gained a pretty general knowledge of their enemies, and they are arreſting them in numbers; what they really propoſe to themſelves, whether they have any proſpect of ſtanding their ground, and trying a republic, or whether the handful of leaders mean to fly as ſoon as the foreign army or the French army makes its approach, for either will be equally fatal to them, I know not.

This dreadful ſcene, however it may cloſe upon the fate of France, or upon the fortune of liberty, ought to be a leſſon to every government that true wiſdom conſiſts in fair dealing; and that to cajole, to trick, and to play the hypocrite with a whole people, is as weak as it is wicked; I ſay this, becauſe I am perſuaded, that the want of candour, more than treaſon in the court, has brought upon them this cataſtrophe. They wiſhed an increaſe of power, which in due time the nation would have given them, but too eager, they tried to accompliſh it by ſecret and diſhoneſt means."

WAR with RUSSIA.

M. Le Brun, ſecretary for foreign affairs, notified the aſſembly, that the empreſs of Ruſſia had declared war againſt France; the Imperial Catharine, from the moſt remote corner of the north, ordered Frenchmen to reinſtate Louis XVI. in all his royal prerogatives—M. Geneſt, the French ambaſſador, had been expelled Ruſſia.—Referred to the Diplomatic committee.

Louis XVI. is now in the Temple; he was tranſferred there laſt Tueſday.—M. Petion was in the ſame carriage with the king and his family—Louis XVI. ſeemed afraid: the croud on the Place Vendome hindered his coach from proceeding; and it ſtopped exactly oppoſite to the demoliſhed ſtatue of Louis XIV. The fall of that magnificent idol muſt have awoke ſtrange reflections in his ſwollen breaſt, all inimical to the vanity of terreſtrial affairs.—O Louis! how eaſy might it have been for you to have avoided ſuch humiliation.

We hear that general La Fayette was on the 12th informed of the events of the 10th. It is ſaid he did not credit the report, and that he added theſe words —"Let what may be fact, my army will obey me."

DOVER, September 26.

The following letter, from a private ſoldier in captain Caſs's company, 2d United States regiment, to his friend in Durham, being of a late date may contain ſomething new.

MARIETTA, July 25, 1792.

"I am now living in the village of Marietta, and am in perfect health, and hope this may find you well alſo. I would inform you, that the Indians are very troubleſome in theſe parts; they are daily killing or taking ſome of our people. The week before laſt there was a party of our men conſiſting of a ſerjeant, corporal, and ſixteen men, out reaping, about a mile from Fort Jefferſon, when on a ſudden they were ſaluted with a volley of ſhot which laid fourteen of our men dead on the ſpot, and two eſcaped, the party of Indians were ſuppoſed to be about eighty. General Wayne is now at Pittſburg, and we expect to be called away daily, or at leaſt as ſoon as he reaches this place; and then we do ſuppoſe that we ſhall have another ſpirt with them. We are now very well off, and receive the beſt of proviſions, cloathing and money every three months—beſides that, the pleaſure of hunting and ſporting upon the beautiful banks of the pleaſant Ohio. I would not really exchange places with the beſt men of you, not for the world, for I never lived better and more at my eaſe ſince I was born, than I do now, and nothing wanting, but the preſence of my old friends, to complete the happineſs of,

"Your moſt obedient,

"P. C."

NEW-YORK, October 4.

The Stockbridge paper of September 25, ſays,—A gentleman in the Geneſee country, writes to his friend in this town, in a letter dated the 10th inſtant, as follows—"We have news from Niagara, that general Wayne has had an engagement with the Indians, and gained a complete victory, having deſtroyed 1300 of the ſavages—he took no priſoners. This is report, but we are in hopes that the intelligence is well founded." [We join our hopes with the letter writer, but hardly dare indulge the belief that time will authenticate the report.]

The governor of Bermuda has iſſued a proclamation allowing the importation into the Somer's iſlands, in any foreign veſſels, from any foreign ports whatever, of ſalted proviſions, live ſtock, Indian corn, rice, flour, &c. until the firſt November next.

It is ſaid, that a great ſcarcity of proviſions, grain, &c. has been experienced at Bermuda.

PHILADELPHIA, October 8.

By accounts from France, per the Patſy Rutledge, captain M'Pherſon, ſo late as the 26th of Auguſt laſt, which is eleven days later than the news per the New-York, captain Smith, we hear the king was ſtill ſafe in the Temple, and had not been tried. The duke of Brunſwick was marching towards Paris, and had threatened to put every perſon to the ſword there in caſe of oppoſition. The marquis de la Fayette, with eight of his principal officers, had all been taken priſoners by the Auſtrian peaſants, as he and thoſe eight officers were reconnoitring the Auſtrian lines, and the marquis is now lodged in the caſtle of Antwerp.—This account comes from a reſpectable merchant at Oſtend; it was however the general opinion that the marquis and eight brave officers well armed, would never ſuffer themſelves to be taken by countrymen, unleſs they had premeditated the buſineſs themſelves.—This gave riſe to ſtrong ſuſpicions, that the marquis and thoſe officers, ſeeing that their lives were in hourly danger in France, had fallen upon this mode of deſerting over to the Auſtrians—but in oppoſition to this, it was ſaid, that as the marquis and his party whilſt reconnoitring, had not worn their uniforms, but were taken in diſguiſe, this will furniſh the duke of Brunſwick with an excuſe for treating them as ſpies, and conſequently the marquis will loſe his life.

Under theſe ideas it cannot be preſumed that he would leave his own army, although his life might have been there endangered, to riſk a worſe fate from the hands of the Auſtrians—at all events it was the generally received opinion, that he had been taken with his own conſent. And until we hear further accounts, we muſt remain in this ſtate of ſuſpenſe, reſpecting French politics. The people at Oſtend are of opinion that the duke of Brunſwick is able to march through all France without meeting much oppoſition. This, however, is eaſier to ſpeak, than it may be found in acting.

Oct. 10. The intelligence which was inſerted in our paper of Monday, reſpecting the capture of the marquis de la Fayette by ſome Auſtrian peaſants, although it is conveyed in the moſt diffident language, ſeems to leave room for an idea that that gallant, patriotic ſoldier had premeditated the tranſaction. To credit this, however, would be to ſuſpect the marquis of an ungentleman-like action, of which he is incapable. The only juſt ſurmiſe that ought to be entertained of the buſineſs is, that he and the ſmall party who were arreſted with him had really intended an eſcape from France. They had ſtood firm to the conſtitution until they beheld it infringed by the ſuſpenſion of the executive head. Their commiſſions of conſequence were out of force, as having been ſigned by the king. They had little proſpect of ſaving their own lives by remaining in France, and therefore reſolved to quit a country which it ſeemed impoſſible to them could be ſaved from impending deſolation. But in the execution of their deſign, they were accidentally arreſted and lodged in the caſtle at Antwerp. This is the whole of the matter, nor can any other colouring be put over it, unleſs by misjudging or malicious politicians. La Fayette has been deceived by both parties. He wiſhed to ſupport the king conſtitutionally, but the king and his private friends have deceived La Fayette by their intrigues; and thus he has been cruelly handled on all ſides. May the hand of Providence ſecure his life and fame from every danger!

"General Putnam, (ſays a letter from an officer at Marietta) having deſpaired of a treaty with the Miamies, has gone to the Wabaſh, with a view of detaching ſome of the tribes from the general combination; but, I am ſorry to add, with little proſpect of ſucceſs."

A French gentleman, recently from the Wabaſh, informs, that the Indians are employed in removing their families beyond the waters of the Miſſiſippi, in order that the warriors upon their return, may be leſs incumbered for battle. We have alſo a report in circulation, that a party lately puſhed into the French ſettlement of Galliopolis, and killed and ſcalped two or three persons. Such is the aspect of Indian affairs at this period.

Extract of a letter from a gentleman in Cape-François, to his friend in this city, dated September 18.

"At last the forces under the command of general Desparbes, arrived yesterday. They consist of 6400 men, of whom 4000 are national guards. The new civil commission arrives with them. The general appears ready to dispense with ceremony and etiquette, and is anxious only for the safety of the remains of the unfortunate colony.

"The civil commissioners are busy in preparing proclamations previous to exerting the strong arm of power.

"It was full time that this succour should arrive, the unhappy province of Cayes is nearly ruined, and by the manœuvres of an infernal cabal the slaves of the parish of Gros Morne were driven to follow the example of the rebels in the northern part.

"The timely and courageous exertions of the inhabitants of Borgne, aided by colour citizens, have dispersed some bands and destroyed 3 or 400 insurgents, besides capturing 100, fifty of whom have been executed; the remainder are kept for examination, to endeavour at discovering the movers of the insurrection."

WINCHESTER, October 8.

Two traders of this town, who have stores in the territory of the United States south of the river Ohio, last week received letters from their agents there, from which we have taken the following extracts:

KNOXVILLE, September 12, 1792.

"I am sorry to inform you of our present alarming situation—the five Chickamawga towns, as well as the Creeks, have declared war against the United States, and the celebrated John Watts has marched at the head of 500 warriors, with the intent of committing depredations on some part of the frontiers—Many imagine they are destined against this place, others Cumberland—Unaneketi is in the number. Last night a sentry, at a station not more than nine miles from hence, was fired at. The people on Nine-Mile, which I left yesterday, are preparing to erect fortifications, as they are all on the frontiers of this country. We have nothing but musterings and expresses, and war-talks frequently.—I was fortunately in Chota at the critical period of their declaring war; and discovered the result of their councils, rode all night, express, to give governor Blount the information. The governor immediately called the people of the country out for the defence of the frontiers. I must conclude, my friend, with a hope that congress will relieve our helpless state, in doing which no time is to be lost."

FRENCH BROAD, September 19, 1792.

"I have been informed that there are 600 Indians out against this part of the country—likewise, that they have killed two men, brothers, of the name of Gillespy, who lived on Holstein, below Knoxville, and that Knoxville is evacuated."

BALTIMORE, October 11.

From a late LONDON PAPER.

CAUTION TO MARINERS.

The commissioners of his majesty's customs, in Scotland, received a letter on Thursday last, from Mr. John Campbell, commander of the Prince of Wales cutter, in the service of the customs, stationed in the Western Islands of Scotland, of which the following is a copy, viz.

"I beg leave to report to your honours, that there is a sunk rock lying very near in the Fair-Way, going into the entrance of the harbour of Loch-Aylort, in Muidart.

"On the 25th of June last, I went to it in a boat at low water. Upon some part of it there were seven feet, and upon the shoalest part one and one half water, but depth of water sufficient all round it—bears from Illangour nearly N. W. per compass, distance half a mile, or thereabout. As it is a very dangerous rock to those who may have occasion to frequent said Loch, and it not being laid down in Mr. M'Kenzie's charts, I think it my duty to acquaint your honours of the same.

(Signed) "JOHN CAMPBELL."

Robert Peter, colonel William Deakins, Benjamin Stoddert, Thomas Beall of George, John Threlkeld, and Samuel Davidson, Esquires, George-Town. George Walker, Esquire, city of Washington. Wallace and Muir, and John Davidson, Esquires, Annapolis.

This scheme contains several very valuable lots of land contiguous to the city of Washington, whose increase in value will keep pace with the growth of the rising empire of the United States of America—Hence, therefore, without any further definition, it will be evident that for the small sum of one Guinea a valuable and beautiful country seat may be obtained in the vicinity of the capital of America; or a lot in a town now possessing an extensive commerce.

The subscriber proposes drawing this Lottery in George-Town, on the first Monday in May next, or sooner, if the tickets are all sold, which he flatters himself will be the case from his present prospects. Deeds, with a general warranty, will immediately be given for the lots of land, and the money for the cash prizes will be paid on demand. Notice will be given of the drawing in the public papers, and a list of the fortunate numbers will be immediately published. The crop now on the lots is reserved to the subscriber. A plot of the lots may be seen at Mr. George Mann's.

THREE POUNDS REWARD.

RAN away the first instant, from the subscriber, living near Annapolis, a NEGRO MAN, named TOM, about 21 years of age, five feet two or three inches high, a likely well made fellow; had on when he went away, a pair of nankeen breeches, old woollen jacket, country linen shirt, and old felt hat; it is supposed he will make towards the Manor, on West river, as his father lives there, with Mr. Benjamin Owens. Whoever takes up and secures the said fellow, so that his master gets him again, shall receive twenty shillings reward, if taken above ten miles from home thirty shillings, and if out of the state the above reward, including what the law allows, paid by or three persons. Such is the aspect of Indian affairs at this period.

Extract of a letter from a gentleman in Cape-Francois, to his friend in this city, dated September 18.

"At last the forces under the command of general Desparbes, arrived yesterday. They consist of 6,000 men, of whom 4000 are national guards. The new civil commission arrives with them. The general appears ready to dispense with ceremony and etiquette, and is anxious only for the safety of the remains of the unfortunate colony.

"The civil commissioners are busy in preparing proclamations previous to exerting the strong arm of power.

"It was full time that this succour should arrive, the unhappy province of Cayes is nearly ruined, and by the manœuvres of an infernal cabal the slaves of the parish of Gros Morne were driven to follow the example of the rebels in the northern part.

"The timely and courageous exertions of the inhabitants of Borgne, aided by colour citizens, have dispersed some bands and destroyed 3 or 400 insurgents, besides capturing 100, fifty of whom have been executed; the remainder are kept for examination, to endeavour at discovering the movers of the insurrection."

WINCHESTER, October 8.

Two traders of this town, who have stores in the territory of the United States south of the river Ohio, last week received letters from their agents there, from which we have taken the following extracts:

KNOXVILLE, September 12, 1792.

"I am sorry to inform you of our present alarming situation—the five Chickamawga towns, as well as the Creeks, have declared war against the United States, and the celebrated John Watts has marched at the head of 500 warriors, with the intent of committing depredations on some part of the frontiers—Many imagine they are destined against this place, others Cumberland—Unaneketi is in the number. Last night a sentry, at a station not more than nine miles from hence, was fired at. The people on Nine-Mile, which I left yesterday, are preparing to erect fortifications, as they are all on the frontiers of this country. We have nothing but musterings and expresses, and war-talks frequently.—I was fortunately in Chota at the critical period of their declaring war; and discovered the result of their councils, rode all night, express, to give governor Blount the information. The governor immediately called the people of the country out for the defence of the frontiers. I must conclude, my friend, with a hope that congress will relieve our helpless state, in doing which no time is to be lost."

FRENCH BROAD, September 19, 1792.

"I have been informed that there are 600 Indians out against this part of the country—likewise, that they have killed two men, brothers, of the name of Gillespy, who lived on Holstein, below Knoxville, and that Knoxville is evacuated."

CAUTION TO MARINERS.

The commissioners of his majesty's customs, in Scotland, received a letter on Thursday last, from Mr. John Campbell, commander of the Prince of Wales cutter, in the service of the customs, stationed in the Western Islands of Scotland, of which the following is a copy, viz.

"I beg leave to report to your honours, that there is a sunk rock lying very near in the Fair-Way, going into the entrance of the harbour of Loch-Aylort, in Muidart.

"On the 25th of June last, I went to it in a boat at low water. Upon some part of it there were seven feet, and upon the shoalest part one and one half water, but depth of water sufficient all round it—bears from Illangour nearly N. W. per compass, distance half a mile, or thereabout. As it is a very dangerous rock to those who may have occasion to frequent said Loch, and it not being laid down in Mr. M'Kenzie's charts, I think it my duty to acquaint your honours of the same.

(Signed) "JOHN CAMPBELL."

The subscriber proposes drawing this Lottery in George-Town, on the first Monday in May next, or sooner, if the tickets are all sold, which he flatters himself will be the case from his present prospects. Deeds, with a general warranty, will immediately be given for the lots of land, and the money for the cash prizes will be paid on demand. Notice will be given of the drawing in the public papers, and a list of the fortunate numbers will be immediately published. The crop now on the lots is reserved to the subscriber. A plot of the lots may be seen at Mr. George Mann's.
